SCOUT ASSOCIATION ELECT OFFICERS FOR ENSUING YEAR

The annual meeting of the Gleichen Boy Scout Association was held in the Scout Hall with President S. E. Lester in the chair. In the absence of Mr. W. A. Schmidt, Mr. C. W. Halstead acted as secretary. Following the usual routine business, reports were received. Mr. Herb Hunter, scoutmaster, reported briefly on the trip to Calgary to meet Chief Scout Lord Baden-Powell, and spoke generally of scouting activities for the year. He commented on the excellent progress of the boys and the membership which at the present time totalled 264; he stated that by the end of June, he hoped all the boys would be second class scouts. He thanked everyone who donated to the Scout Library, particularly Mr. Gooderham for the special book he had given; Mr. Black for the gramaphone and Mr. Yater for a flag. He further stated that the boys had paid all the running expenses of the hall themselves and that the dues were up-to-date.

A scout financial report was given by Scout Quartermaster J. A. m. S. Swain.

Mr. John Boyd, Cubmaster, reported on Cub activities. Sixteen boys enrolled and all were making progress. He stated his desire to resign, but was willing to carry on for two months.

A financial report was given by the secretary, and accepted.

Instructions were given the secretary to write the Stampede Association accepting and thanking them for the donation of the confectionary expenses.

Election of officers for the ensuing year was held and the following were elected:

C. W. Halstead, president.

M. Riddell, Vice-President.

H. E. Lester, Secretary-Treasurer.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the retiring officers, as well as the Scout and Cub Masters.

Some discussion took place regarding the scout camp. Scoutmaster Hunter suggested that the camp be held at Bragg Creek, as there were always too many visitors at the camp, thus interrupting work, as the boys preferred to have the camp at a distance. He further stated that the boys were working hard to raise money, having an objective of $10.00 per boy. He thought the beginning of July would be a good time for the camp and stated he would be unable to attend himself. Mr. Myers was suggested to take charge but he stated he would be unable to spare the time. A motion was made that endorsed the scouts idea of holding camp at a distant instead of a local camp.

L. Michael, G. Gooderham, the Scoutmaster and executive were appointed a committee to assist the scouts to organize their camp and see that a substitute scoutmaster be appointed failing Mr. Hunter of Mr. Myers. This committee is also to meet the Guide and Sunapee Association committee in regard to June 23rd concessions.

It was thought that the meeting should go on record as congratulating the boys on their Scout Hall and on their initiative and splendid progress.

Herb Hunter and H. B. Myers were appointed a committee to investigate the possibilities of forming a Rover Patrol for older boys, following which the meeting adjourned.

Soon the vacation season will be here, and many people will visit various interesting places for the first time, some in our own country and elsewhere. While recreation will be the principal aim of many, a majority will expect to learn something during their travels. In order that one may derive the most benefit from his travel experiences, it would be well to find out as much as possible about the places to be visited ahead of time. Then when he actually sees the places and objects of which he has studied, he will gain a more lasting impression of their significance. Information gained from handbooks during one's travels is valuable, of course, but it is generally superficial, and lacking in the historical background which is necessary for a full understanding, and appreciation of the famous places where history has been made. Mrs. H. Birch, choir leader.

Miss Jean Farquharson, pianist.

11 a.m., Church School.

7:30 p.m., evening worship.

Subjet "The Need of a New Experience."

The question may well be asked does the Church of today give to Pentecost the place which its importance demands? Does the average Christian know what Pentecost stands for? We celebrate Christmas and Easter as great religious feasts but most people scarcely know when Pentecost occurs or realize its significance. And yet without the fact that Pentecost stands the Christian Church might almost as well lose its doors for it is helpless in the midst of a pagan world. Everyone is invited to observe this festival of Sunday night and learn something of its significance for the present age.

GOSPISS TOWN

(Author unknown.)

Have you ever heard of Gospiss Town on the shores of Falsehood Bay Where old Dame Rumor with rustling gown is going the livelong day It isn't far to Gospiss Town for people who want to go.

The Idleness Train will take you down in just an hour or so.

The Thoughtless Road is a popular route, and most folks start with way.

But it's steep down grade; if you don't look out you'll land in Falsehood Bay!

You glide through the valley of Vice, Vices Folly and into the Tunnel of Hate,

Then crossing the Addict Bridge, you walk right into the city gate.

The principal street is called "They Say," and "I've Heard" is the public well.

And the breezes that blow from Falsehood Bay are laden with "Don't You Tell."

In the midst of the town is Telltales Park. You're never quite safe while there.

For its owner is Madam Suspicion Remark who lives in the street "Don't Care."

Just back of the park is Slander Row,

Twas there Good Name died Pierced by a dart from Jealousy's bow in the hands of Envious Pride.

From Gospiss Town, peace long has fled, but Trouble, Grief and Woe And Sorrow and Care you'll meet in store, if ever you chance to go.

Arrowwood is singing the annual sports day next Wednesday, June 3rd. Many local people will no doubt visit the southern town on that day.

Miss D. Bryson, of the teaching staff of St. Hilda's College, Calgary spent the holiday in town visiting her aunt Mrs. W. P. Evans

CENSUS OF PRAIRIE PROVINCES WILL START MONDAY

The quinquennial census of the three prairie provinces Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will start on Monday June 1st. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics points out that it is especially important at the present time that a complete and accurate inventory be obtained.

There are twelve inquiries which deal with the occupation, industry, the industrial status, unemployment and earnings of the gainfully employed population. It is hoped that every question will be answered fully and it should be noted here that there need be no fear that information given will be available to anyone. The utmost secrecy is preserved and is no circumstances will any information supplied by individual be used as a basis for collection of any other purpose. All officials and clerks are bound by oath of secrecy.

In addition to the questions dealing with occupation, industry and status, certain inquiries relating to unemployment and earnings will be addressed to all persons reported as wage or salaried workers. Persons not at work on June 1 will further report the reason and the number of weeks since last employed. Those with jobs will be asked whether employed on full or part time basis or on relief work and the number of weeks worked during the last twelve months. Every wage earner will be expected to state the total amount of his earnings during the past twelve months.

Not only will the census give a comprehensive picture of the occupational scene on June 1, but it will describe its more permanent features as well.

It will tell for every industry what its working members were doing for a living on June 1 and also what they usually do. Such information is useful in formulating a policy of re-employment and placing.

Much interest and concern exists today as to the number of unemployed in the country, distinct from those in receipt of relief. Unemployment in depressed industries, as well as in various grades of occupation, will be fully understood from the facts gathered at the census. The light the census will throw on the duration of unemployment in the prairie provinces as well as the extent of part time employment will be very useful in framing remedial measures to meet the situation.

It is recognized today that young people represent a special problem. Young people who are now entering the labor market as competitors for available jobs will receive special attention. It is proposed to record them separately from the unemployed who have followed an occupation at some time prior to the census and to find out how many have been trained to fill a number of clerical, technical and professional occupations.

Statistics of earnings of wage earners are in great demand. The knowledge will be useful in gauging the relative need of different economic groups and for setting up uniform wage standards in each province or in specific localities within each province.

What About Immigration?

The question of encouraging and permitting immigration to Western Canada is again looming on the horizon after a hiatus of six or seven years in the flow of new settlers to this country from Great Britain and some of the European countries.

With the agricultural and economic depression of the past few years still laying a heavy hand on the people of the prairie provinces and with the shadow of half a dozen years of widespread unemployment and direct relief not yet obliterated, colonization schemes, with Western Canada as one of the objectives, are being considered and launched on both sides of the Atlantic.

In the British House of Commons a motion was adopted in late December inviting the House to take prompt steps to survey the possibility of immigration within the Empire and the Under-secretary for Foreign Affairs announced the government's decision to appoint an Empire Settlement Board of eight members and its acceptance of the report of an inter-departmental committee for overseas settlements.

On this side of the ocean, public announcement was recently made of the promotion, presumably by private interests, of a colonization scheme, under which it is proposed to bring out for settlement on purchased land in Saskatchewan, one hundred families of experienced farmers from the County of Derby, England, accompanied by an intimation that this is but the precursor of a number of similar colonies.

Under this scheme, British capital, it was reported, is investing sufficient money to purchase 100 quarter sections of land at $20 an acre, farm implements, livestock and machinery to the extent of $12,500 per family. The money is to be treated as a revolving fund, for, according to press reports: "Each year they (the immigrants) will repay part of what they make from crops. At the end of five years they are supposed to have saved enough to be able to leave the colony and buy farms for themselves. The county authorities in England will make a loan equal to what has been raved out to enable the purchase of farm and equipment. When they leave, their places will be taken by other British emigrants."

The plan, it is reported, contemplates safeguards to prevent the migrants becoming a charge on the country during their five year apprenticeship period and their activities are to be supervised.

Without taking cognizance of the possible ultimate fate of a percentage of those who leave, the project, the effect of colonization of new settlers on the welfare of established farmers or the agricultural industry in the west and of the country, under this or any other immigration plan, at the present time and under existing conditions, is worthy of serious consideration on the part of the provincial and Dominion authorities, before sanction to such plans is given, or, in fact, to immigration generally.

It must not be forgotten that the immediate future of agriculture in the prairie provinces is somewhat doubtful with export markets for hard-cryp wheat contracting, with consumption tending to exceed in Canada's best wheat market and with, as yet, no new markets opened up.

Thus, the farmers on the land now in the prairie provinces are more than able to take care of the existing market for their major export product and to bring in others to compete with them in this particular product does not appear to be a reasonable act.

There appears to be some hope of expanding markets for some other exportable agricultural products which can be produced on the prairies principally livestock and livestock products, but, so far, these markets have not been sufficiently developed to warrant increased production by adventurous methods. The trend rather is in the direction of improvement in quality and assurance of regularity of supply. Until this has been achieved and markets for such products broadened because of it, it is reasonable to suppose that farmers already on the land can take care of the demand. As for other agricultural products which must be confined to local markets, everybody knows that the capacity of these markets is so limited at present, and likely to be for some time to come, that their requirements can easily be cared for without bringing in new settlers to increase production.

Until these problems are in a fair way to be solved and farmers already established in the country have had a reasonable opportunity to at least partially rehabilitate themselves and recover some of their lost ground, the wisdom of bringing in new settlers, no matter how desirable the type, is open to serious question.

Certainly the rural sections of the west cannot be expected to welcome new immigrants with open arms, and it is equally certain that the urban centres, who are busily engaged in assisting former farm residents to get back on the land or return to the counties of their origin, will look askance at any proposal to establish more new settlers from overseas.

Big Radium Shipments

Large Consignment Is Purchased By The Ontario Government

Thirty-five little wooden boxes each containing about $4,000 worth of radium from Great Bear Lake in Ontario department of health laboratories as radium was made of the largest single shipment of radium ever produced in Canada. The boxes contained a total of 3,500 milligrams of radium, which will cost the Ontario government approximately $155,000. The supply will go to the Toronto general hospital to replace 3½ grana which have been rented from a New York firm.

Europe in Arms

Nations Of The Continent Could Muster Millions Of Soldiers

The veteran Austrian military expert, General Alex Lexin, estimated that the leading nations of the continent of Europe could muster 35,000,000 soldiers for instant service in case of an emergency.

In a statement published in the Vienna weekly "Sunday and Monday Newspaper," General Alex Lexin estimated forces subject to immediate call as follows: Russia, 13,000,000; Italy, 6,500,000; Germany, 6,000,000; France, 5,800,000; Poland, 3,500,000.

He said his country frankly took up rearmament in 1935 as the "only feasible policy for Austria," and that the nation could now muster 500,000 men if a sudden war developed.

Building Up A Fortune

Trust Fund Of Dionne Quintuplets Now $120,000

The Dionne quintuplets will soon have enough money to retire for life if their present rate of income continues. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valin, guardians to the famous children, announced each babe was worth about $24,000 in her own right.

Between them the sisters have in a trust fund $120,000 of government bonds, amassed since the Ontario government took charge of their affairs a year ago almost to the day. If they live to three years of age, present contracts assure the quintuplets a sum of $120,000.

"It is our aim and the aim of the guardians to bring the trust fund up to the point where the interest will support them without touching the principal," said Welfare Minister Crook. "We place that amount at about $30,000 which we expect to reach in a year or a year and a half."

During the last year, about $25,000 has been spent enlarging and equipping the hospital where the quintuplets live. Pay for nurses and salaries of provincial police to patrol the place day and night comes out of the fund.

Regular payments are made to the parents, while the guardians pay out nearly $1,000 monthly for the operating cost of the hospital. In all about $35,000 has been expended this year.

A Canada-wide educational campaign will be the first step launched by the trustees of the King George V. silver jubilee cancer fund, it was announced at the conclusion of a meeting of the trustees at Ottawa. In the larger centres of the Dominion, meetings of the public and of medical men will be held. Assistance in the campaign will be given by an outstanding British authority, whose name for the present the trustees withheld.

The policy as to how the fund should be carried out was discussed by the trustees and plans were adopted to ensure the greatest amount of income should accrue from the funds in hand.

Tickets As Gifts

English Railways Had Novel Idea For Holiday Season

A new stunt to encourage railway travel and the traditional pantomimes in London marked the Christmas season in the United Kingdom.

In the industrial north and on the Clyde where business has shown marked improvement, it was one of the happiest celebrations in years.

First place among Christmas novelties must be given to the British railways which made arrangements for the sale of tickets in advance which could be sent to passengers. The companies also undertook to enclose a special Christmas greeting card devised to hold the tickets so distributed.

The schemes, for instance, enabled people living in the North of England who desired their friends in the South to visit them for the festive season, to purchase the railway tickets in advance and forward them as Christmas gifts or New Year gifts.

Aged Doctor Learns Braille

Favorite Pastime Will Remain With Him When Sight Fails

Anticipating complete blindness, Dr. John H. Lacy, 80-year-old colorful Arizona pioneer, is learning to read Braille so that when blindness comes he still will be able to enjoy his favorite amusement—reading.

Dr. Lacy, an Army and Indian Service physician for years, and a superior court halifor for the past 10 years, began study of the Braille system four months ago when he began to have difficulty reading, even with a powerful reading glass. He still is able to walk about the streets alone, however.

The physician went to Arizona in 1885 from Virginia. Highway Safety

Plea Is Made To Eliminate Loss Of Life From Motor Accidents

Premier A. A. Dysart, who has jurisdiction over New Brunswick's highways, thinks highway safety might be impressed upon traffic offenders when they come to court by showing them motion pictures of wrecked machines and injured people.

A plea to eliminate loss of life on the nation's highways in 1936 went out to Canadians from Hon. C. D. Howe, federal minister of railways and minister with jurisdiction over highways of four provinces.

Impressed with the growing toll of highway fatalities, Premier Dysart of New Brunswick; Hon. T. B. McQuesten, highways minister for Ontario; Hon. W. R. Clapp, minister of public works and labor in Manitoba; and Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, joined with Mr. Howe in messages urging highway safety.

Recalling the federal government, the railways and municipalities had in the past quarter of century spent a total of $36,000,000 for protecting level crossings, Mr. Howe said the work must be continued and extended as the public interest required "but as the toll of death and injury in motor accidents continue to mount it becomes increasingly evident that the crux of the problem is not so much the level crossing but along the highways themselves."

FLEMING'S FOLLY

LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNDICATION

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn prejudice, of a girl's scheme, and the treachery of a girl and a man battling ridicule, sabotage, bullets, and the law to bring about what would turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County citizens, called together to discuss the possibility of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhairs, and his nephew, Helen Link and her brother, Link, are against the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Toney, a derelict mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew well, to come to him to give his opinion in favor of the plan, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Hartson's plan would be a good idea, a new-fangled way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen Link and her brother, Link, are against the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Toney, a derelict mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew well, to come to him to give his opinion in favor of the plan, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Hartson's plan would be a good idea, a new-fangled way to waste money.

There was a short silence. "Don't know why you think I want your scalp," he complained. "Of course, there may be guys that do. I wouldn't go so far as to name 'em, but you know as well as I do, you ain't too popular with friends of Buzz Hamilton. Some of the guys are here because you tried to trick 'em into that fool irrigation scheme that would cost sixty thousand bucks and wouldn't be worth a nickel. Maybe some'll blame you for getting Buzz so mad he tried that shootin' in the hotel. Can't explain how folks are apt to look at a thing," he remarked ironically.

Fleming waited. Roper moved nearer. "I need more range for my cows. Link, and your grass looks pretty good to me. 'Course I need more if we have trouble about that foolish order from the government. And I reckon Uncle Sam means business. You know he'd rather suffer from a hardship than have a Gay boy found out before they have to stand the climate here in Boone County. So I just thought I'd drop in to talk it over with you."

"Buyin' you out. Want to sell, Link?" His grin had an evil, mocking glint to it.

"Willing to sell anything I have for the right price," was the prompt answer.

WHY FEAR MOTHERHOOD?

THE period in a woman's life just before her child born need not be a time of illness and anxiety. At this time, it is essential that good health and good spirits be maintained.

Everyone should be healthy, but the tonic effect of Dr. Piero's Fausto Principe tonics nourishes and strengthens the body of the expectant mother. Judge Parkhill's courtroom in the ramshackle county building at Atlas was filled with interested spectators as the trial of Duzz Hamilton for attempted murder drew to a close. the season's first dribbling flakes of snow.

Link sat a few feet from Buzz, who was between Sheriff Stephen and Deputy Amos Hintz. Near him Helen Hamilton poised white-faced and tense. The trial was over. Buzz had been found guilty. Silence reigned as Judge Parkhill prepared to pass sentence.

It had been with great reluctance that Fleming testified in regard to the shooting. He tried to make it appear accidental, but as the sheriff commented cryptically, "A man don't draw on another just by accident, York Honor." And there had been Buster Townsend's story, brought to the courtroom in writing. Buzz, he declared, tried to kill Fleming. The jury had so decided.

"Stand before the court to have sentence passed upon you, Arnold Hamilton."

Buzz rose. His thin lips twitched and his face was pale. His attitude was cringing and fearful, quite the reverse of his former aggressiveness. Judge Parkhill cleared his throat and leaned forward. He exuded stern grey eyes on the prisoner.

"The jury has found you guilty of attempting to murder Lincoln Fleming. Has anyone anything to say?"

Hamilton merely stared down at his hands.

"According to the law, it is now my duty to impose sentence. It is the order of this court that you be remanded to the charge of the warden of the State Penitentiary, there to be held prisoner for three years, sentence to begin at once."

"And when you get free, young feller," the Judge added with asperity, "I warn you to remember this county isn't wide open. The sheriff's duty is to maintain order. That means no careless handling of deadly weapons. Take the prisoner away!"

A rustle of whispering went around the room. "Three years!" Stephen snapped disapprovingly. "Say, he should've got ten!"

"Hold on, Kilgo!"

"How much did you offer him? Perhaps it wasn't what the place is worth."

"That collection o' buzzard meat he calls cows?" He laughed mirthlessly. "And a bunch of sandhills to feed on?" offered him twenty thousand cash. And would he take—"

Entered through the doorway, his stolid eyes found Link. "You offered me twenty thousand cash, eh, Roper? When?"

"Why—uh—" Quickly he changed his tone to a bluster. "Yuh know darn well I did!"

"That's funny. I understand you to offer me three thousand. In fact I'm positive that's what you said."

His red face deepened in hue. "Yuh claim I'm a liar, Fleming?"

"You might call it that—yes."

He uttered a gasp. She would have thrown herself between the two men, but with an oath Kilgo had already lashed out like a yellow-jacket.

It struck a glancing blow to his opponent's shoulder. Link retreated, his arms raised in defense as if he was afraid. Roper stood in, shouting, "Hold it! Hold it!"

"Hold on, Kilgo!"

Prospectors Crowd Into North

Young Men And Old Veterans Looking For Gold

Gold, the yellow-lure of the North country, which has sent thousands of men from Edmonton in the last few years, holds the 1936 northern prospectors as preparations are made for a new season.

Reports of fabulously finds, made during the 1935 season, many of which have yet to be proved by actual mining operations, are bringing prospectors from east and west, men young in the search for the precious metal and veterans who have prospected other fields in Canada and the United States.

By land, train, waterways and airplane, they will make their way to Edmonton, the "gateway to the north." Some will make a winter start — snow-stakers; others will await the spring break-up.

The rush for fortune — hidden in the rocks of the north — means trade for the Gateway City. Thousands of dollars are spent by the gold hunters in Alberta's capital.

The discovery of gold changed an isolated trading post known as Beaver Lodge, on the north shore of Lake Athabasca, astride the Saskatchewan-Alberta boundary, to this thriving town which was named Gold-fields.

From an original population of less than a dozen traders and trap-pers, Gold-fields to-day has a community of 300 men and women, with newcomers adding to the count each month. It is 450 miles from Edmonton by air.

Misfortune has followed some into Gold-fields. Other struck it lucky.

Nearly two decades ago the area was searched for the yellow metal of wealth. Tragedy ended the early search when Paul Fliche, a French Canadian trapper and prospector, took his life after an unsuccessful hunt for capital to back his venture.

To-day his cabin, abandoned years ago, is in the centre of the discovery area. Fliche took a fast way out. Overlooking the field that he believed would bring his fortune, the old-time prospector prepared a box of dynamite, his last, calmly sat atop and fired the fuse.

Other districts in the north are Neal Lake, and away in the far north, Great Lake. Outpost Island, and the new discovery spot, YellowKnife River, where eastern interests, headed by Toronto men, plan an extensive search next spring.

Turks In Greece

It is somewhat ironical that if one wants now to see a piece of authentic Turkey — a typical Turkish peasant, or a veiled Turkish woman — must look for it in Greece. For since fezzes and veils were banished from Turkey by Mustapha Kemal, Istanbul has become a cosmopolitan city and Turkish peasant indistinguishable from European.

Peep Into The Future

Wonderful Things Are Predicted For The Next Fifty Years

Within 50 years you will breathe "pasteurized air" and probably will be able to pack your own private aeroplane under your arm like a Christmas package.

These were among predictions of what may be looked for in the next 50 years, made by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

"In the next 50 years," he said in an address, "moving stairways will be common. Sidewalks also will be common. Moving

"When you want your auto you will pull it down with a skyhook from where it is stored or parked in an overhead apparatus. The streets will be free for travel."

The air will be pasteurized. Air conditioning will make unbelievable advances. You probably will find it healthier to stay indoors than breathe fumes outdoors.

"Artificial light will become a counterpart of sunlight. With the equivalent of the sun produced indoors there will be no need for windows for light."

"Elevators will run at incredible speeds. Highways will be lighted almost as in the daytime."

"Leisure may become so common that you will work to escape sheer ennui."

"There may be individual flying machines, with folding wings, that you can pack under your arms."

"Tomorrow will demand more and more upon the vacuum tube to do the monotonous operations of industry. These tubes may see, hear, feel, smell, taste. Let humans think of them as the developers of a robot age, it is well to remember that mechanical and electrical contrivances can act but cannot think."

Flood Losses In China

Loss Of Life And Property Reaches High Figure

China, taking stock of the nation's flood losses during 1935, finds the money loss alone exceeds $450,000,000. The cost of human life is incalculable and is not yet ended, for many of the flooded areas are suffering from famine, and death from starvation will almost certainly total tens of thousands before spring.

Surveys show that nearly 10,000,000 acres of farm lands were ruined, inundated in two river valleys — 7,400,000 acres by the Yangtze river and 2,500,000 acres by the Yellow river.

The flooded areas in the Yangtze basin are draining slowly and may be expected to yield spring crops, but most of the area flooded by the Yellow river will remain under water indefinitely. Even now nearly 4,000,000 people are in danger of starvation in this area.

Flood control experts estimate it would take $250,000,000 to overcome the annual menace, a sum far beyond anything China can raise at one time.

Took More Time

The young Lieutenant had been 30 seconds late on parade and was incurring the wrath of the C.O. later in the orderly room.

"I'm exceedingly sorry, sir," he apologized, "but I woke so late there was only but ten minutes to dress."

"Ten minutes," barked the Colonel. "Why, boy, I can dress comfortably in 10 minutes."

"Yes, sir," said the boy, innocently. "But I wash, sir."

No Argument

Two boys appeared to be in trouble.

"Here, what is the argument?" asked an elderly gentleman.

"There's no argument, sir," replied one of the young rascals. "We are in complete agreement. Billy thinks I am not going to give him half this apple—and I think the same."

According to a scientist the gnu is dying late, the crossword enthusiasts will be wondering whether no gnu is good gnu.

Little Helps For This Week

Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry, for anger resteth in the bosom of fools. Ecclesiastes 7:9.

Quench thou the fires of hate and strife. The wasting fever of the heart: From perils guard our feeble life, And to our souls Thy peace impart.

When you are offended or annoyed by others do not suffer your thoughts to dwell thereon, or on anything relating to them, for all this is fuel and kindling of wrath, anger and hatred. Struggle diligently against your impatience, and strive to be gentle and amiable, in season and out of season, toward everyone however much they may vex and annoy you, and be sure God will bless your efforts.

The Union Jack

British Flag Is To Lose Its Ancient Redness

A sensation burst upon Britain with the discovery the imperial red of the Union Jack is to lose its ancient redness.

The change is a result of a government order substituting other dyes for those previously used to color the red bunting, in an attempt to save money.

The British color council refused to accept the resulting tint as red, saying it was a mere dirty brown or rusty color. The council insisted the traditional red, white and blue, pride of Britain for centuries, would become rust, white and blue.

Substitution of a synthetic dye for the brilliant, but costly cochineal hitherto used was decided upon by an inter-governmental technical committee originally set up at the instance of the war department.

A Ghost Ray

Scientist Discovers Ray That Will Make Human Body Invisible

A "ghost ray" capable of rendering the human body invisible was reported an accomplished fact with the arrival in London of Dr. Stefan Pribil, distinguished Hungarian scientist.

Dr. Pribil, it is said, stumbled on the ray by accident while experimenting with mercury vacuum lamps in his Budapest laboratory. He noticed certain objects became blurry in appearance and then faded entirely from sight when subject to rays whose exact nature he has not yet been able to determine.

Later the scientist experimented with two men. He was said to have succeeded in making them invisible for brief periods.

The European starlings are often denounced as undesirable bird aliens, but they are among the 17 kinds of birds that will eat Japanese beetles.

RIDE AND HIKE in ROCKIES

New territory in the Canadian Rockies will be opened this year by the Sky-line Trail Riders and Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. These members come from all over the world to enjoy these splendid recreations. On foot and on horseback they travel from the Canadian Pacific Banff Springs Hotel to conquer the mountains—not just to climb them, but to explore them, to camp out, to meet friendly, cheerful camps on their heights, and to carry away from their wooded slopes health and pleasant recreation.

The first part of the Trail Ride—Sky-line Trail Hike, from the second of August to the fifth, will follow part of the trail taken through the Rockies in 1841 by Sir George Simpson, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

It is planned to motor from Banff Springs Hotel to the game warden's cabin on Healy Creek on August 2, hiking to the Canadian Rockies in the Sunshine Camp, the first day. In the second day Simpson Pass will be crossed and the second camp made at one of the Esary Lakes, near Bow and Spray Lakes. The third night will be spent at Shadow Lake with a special Pow-Wow will be at Castle Mountain Camp on the Banff-Whistler Road, which bus will be available for those who wish to return to Banff. The whole distance will be about 38 miles.

The official five-day trip of the Trail Riders is from July 26 to 30 and this year takes in the Red Deer River, former farms having ground but now included in the Banff National Park, which limits all hunting to cameras. The trout fishing is excellent and ample time will be set aside for fisherman while the party in its party will take the pleasant side trips. The party will motor about 11 miles from Banff to the crossing of the Canadian Rockies to the left. The first camp used for two nights, will be somewhere near Windy Camp. They then ride over the ridge, pass to the isolated cabin on the Red Deer and turn west to the second camp. The trail will follow the Red Deer to its confluence with the Bow Lake and continue to Bow Lake to a camp in the Purmian Valley. The fifth day's ride is to the Sun Dance Lodge Lake Louise Station, for the Pow-Wow.

Fashions in the size and shape of turkeys for the dinner table seem to follow in the wake of fashion apparel. In Britain the trend is towards smaller turkeys; in Canada the big turkey with honest-to-goodness proportions holds sway, while in Australia the distracted breeders are in search of a "streamlined" bird in order to satisfy the latest demands of consumers. On this subject a paper states that large turkeys for the British trade are each year going out of favor. It goes on to state: "To meet requirements of these days of apartments with small ovens, the turkey breeders of Australia are in search of a 'streamlined' turkey. Experiments are being started in Sydney to breed a bird of shorter leg, deeper chest, and broader back to fit an ordinary gas oven. The turkey should also be lighter in weight. The aim of the breeders is a turkey which will look something like a duck in shape."

WOMAN'S MOST CHARMING AGE

The problem of what age a woman is at her best has been the subject of considerable discussion lately. It is when she is 40 that woman is now said to be the most fascinating. Though her face may have lost the look of hope and expectancy that so many consider, the great charm of youth is still strong and expresses character and the manner and poise gained more than balances the loss of freshness and exuberance of youth. There are different opinions. One artist said that he disliked to paint the picture of a woman between the ages of 25 and 40 years. Before 25 the face has an expectancy that charms. At 40 the character is formed and the lines are stronger, but between the ages of 40 and 45 it is apt to be indifferent, author to another to paint a study woman between the ages of 30 and 40. They then had the experiences of the world, with much of the joyousness of youth, and, to him, these were the brightest and most interesting years. It is a difficult question to answer and it would seem impossible to make a general rule hold good, because of the difference found in the individual woman. One woman will be found most charming at 40, while another will be old at 40.

The woman who reads who takes an interest in the affairs of the world, who constantly develops both character and mind, will usually charm and fascinate regardless of age. After all, youth is not a question of years, but a question of the heart, and the woman who is generous, sympathetic and considerate of others will always find herself artful admirers.

Man is believed to have engaged in farming to some extent for about 12,000 years.
